(The Explorer, 1980)

CREATIVITY WORKSHOP

Hemispheric Synchronization—coherent and simultaneous electrical wave forms throughout the brain cortex—has been remarkable as a state of creativity in many directions. Gateway participants have written books, poetry, painted pictures, and composed music as a result.

This year, the Institute offers a special series of Creative Workshops, aimed directly to enhance the ability of the artist, writer, and composer. (See 1980 Schedule). They will be held in the pastoral environment of the Center in Virginia. Each participant will be able to utilize the various types of Institute Hemi-Sync sound techniques that best suit his needs. The Workshops will be offered over long weekends, and will include meals and housing at the Institute Center.

For information and reservations, phone or write the Institute Headquarters in Virginia.

Hemi-Sync® is a registered trademark of Interstate Industries, Inc.
© 1980 The Monroe Institute